* Under the Domestic Animals Act 1994, only seeing and hearing guide dogs are recognised as assistance animals at this stage, and are exempt from paying fees.

Compulsory desexing of newly registered cats and night time cat curfew

As of 10 April 2017, it is compulsory that cat owners desex newly registered cats from three months of age, and a night time containment order for cats from sunset to sunrise will be enforced. Newly registered cats being desexed and all cats being contained at night will reduce the occurrences of nuisance, attacks on native animals/birds and unwanted litters of kittens.

Why do I need to register my pet?

Pet registration is a legal requirement under the Domestic Animals Act 1994. You can be fined for not complying. The State Government Levy is included in Council's registration fees. Council is required to collect this Levy on behalf of the government and it is used primarily to fund responsible pet ownership programs. But there are so many other reasons why you should register your pet.

What benefits does registering have?

Most importantly registering helps to reunite you with your four-legged friend should they become lost. Fees also help with the provision and maintenance of the pound and shelter facilities should you not be able to be immediately reunited with your furry friend.

Registering your pet provides many benefits to you and the community such as:

- Discounted microchipping days
- Investigation into animal attacks, incidents and nuisance complaints such as barking
- Ranger patrols and enforcement of animal control laws to keep the community safe
- Management of domestic animal businesses such as breeders, catteries and kennels to ensure basic animal welfare standards are maintained
- Management of dangerous and restricted breed dogs
